2009 List Report Data Base Statistics

Number reporting for 2009: 91

Number reporting for previous year: 98

Number in data base: 260

Number who have reported during past 5 years: 140

Number of new reporters for 2009: 9

Those reporting for 2009:

Henry Armistead, Stan Arnold, Marcia Balestri, J. Tyler Bell, Wayne Bell, Joy Bowen, Michael Bowen, Dave Brenneman, Gwen Brewer, Jim Brighton, Carol Broderick, Greg Butcher, Sandra Byrd, Joe Byrnes, Ed Carlson, J.B. Churchill, Steve Collins, Clifford Comeau, Keith Eric Costley, Jeffrey Culler, Barbara Davis, Phil Davis, John Dennehy, Sam Dyke, Fred Fallon, Kathy Fleming, Diane Ford, Stephen Ford, Barbara Gearhart, Ross Geredien, Kevin Graff, Jim Green, Ron Gutberlet, Matt Hafner, Joe Hanfman, Elaine Hendricks, Rob Hilton, Mark Hoffman, Hans Holbrook, Emy Holdridge, John Hubbell, Bill Hubick, Marshall Iliff, George Jett, Hank Kaestner, Dennis Kirkwood, Jane Kostenko, Ellen Lawler, Glen Lovelace, Gail Mackiernan, Nancy Magnusson, Andy Martin, Joel Martin, Carol McCollough, Jim Nelson, Lou Nielsen, Paul O'Brien, Peter Osenton, Michael Ostrowski, Robert Ostrowski, Tom Ostrowski, Helen Patton, Dave Perry, Joy Peters, Paul Pisano, Danny Poet, Dave Powell, Evelyn Ralston, Derek Richardson, Bob Ringler, Les Roslund, Nico Sarbanes, Fran Saunders, Norm Saunders, Kurt Schwarz, Fred Shaffer, Lisa Shannon, Jeff Shenot, Dan Small, Jo Solem, Leslie Starr, Jim Stasz, Chuck Stirrat, Warren Strobel, Deborah Terry, Joe Turner, Mike Walsh, Dave Webb, Leo Weigant, Winger West, David Yeany

Those who last reported in 2005:

John Gregoire, Monroe Harden, Al Haury, Amy Hoffman, Carol Newman, Paul Nistico (These individuals will be dropped from the next List Report unless they submit their list totals for 2010).

This is the 24th year that the Maryland List Report has been compiled and published. The list was begun in 1986 by Harvey Mudd, was taken on by Phil Davis in the early 1990s, and then was passed on to Norm Saunders with the 2001 List Report. We sincerely hope that the list is taken in the vein in which it is meant—a way to have fun with our listing mania. If some have stopped reporting their lists because they feel the competition has become too intense, please understand that this is for fun and that we would love to see you return. We're in the middle of a generational switch and we hope that all of you, young and not so young hang in there and watch the evolving skills of so many fine young birders here in Maryland as well as getting into the excitement of seeing how the Maryland 400 Club will evolve in the coming years!

Maryland/DC List Report, 2009

Once again, 2009 was an amazing year for great birds in Maryland, including Lark Bunting, Tufted Duck, Barrow's Goldeneye, Yellow Rail, Scissor-tailed Flycatcher, Yellow-nosed Albatross, Roseate Tern, Swallow-tailed Kite, White-faced Ibis, Hudsonian Godwit, Painted Bunting, and on and on and on.

Additionally, there were some awesome records set or equaled in 2009. First, there is one new member of the Maryland 400 Club! Congratulations to Mark Hoffman for finally getting his nemesis Yellow-headed Blackbird as his 400th species in Maryland. Paul O'Brien and Jim Stasz are now tied for the top spot at 402 species each!. I bet you didn't know there was a hard-fought MD Big Year going on last year either, all in an attempt to beat the prior big-year tally of 330 species seen by Jim Stasz in both 2000 and 2008. Jim Stasz and Stan Arnold smashed the old big year record by tallying 338 species last year, but accompanied by Jim Brighton with 337 species and Kevin Graff with 331. Wow, what a year!

In the MD State Life List Category, we now have 138 people who have ever reported a tally of 300 or better, the so-called 300 Club. This is an increase of 12 birders from last year's list report!

Top birder in the District of Columbia is still Rob Hilton, with 271 species, while Paul Pisano closed to within 2 species of Rob.

The Total Tick Category (a count of all species seen, totaled up across all 23 counties) continues to gain more folks reporting: up to 39 this year. Jim Stasz still sits atop this heap, with his count of 6,248 species, an average of just under 272 species in each county. Bob Ringler and long unheard from Marshall Iliff are in 2nd and 3rd places, both now in the 5,000+ species category, along with Matt Hafner, Hans Holbrook, and John Hubbel. Bill Hubick once again had the highest Total Tick 2009 count, with 3,193, followed closely by Ron Gutberlet with 3,147. If there is a category called Certifiably Crazy, the folks here all belong to it!

Jim Stasz remains the owner of the County Close-Out Category, with his 183 species seen in each of Maryland's 23 counties. Following him are John Hubbell (148 close-outs) and Bob Ringler (133). For just 2009, Ron Gutberlet led the pack with 34 closeouts.

The Birds Photographed in Maryland Category continues of interest. George Jett is at the pinnacle, with 378 species, with Jim Stasz (374) and Mark Hoffman (366) in hot pursuit. High counts for 2009 include Joe Turner's 201 species and Jeff Culler's tally of 142 species snapped last year.

In the Maryland Yard List Category, Harry Armistead, Jeff Shenot, and Jim Stasz continue to hold down the top three spots, with 267, 224, and 222 species, respectively.

The District of Columbia Home/Work/Other Category is led by Garry Allport, who has 94 species on his NW DC yardlist, followed closely by Norm Saunders, with 89 species from 15 or so years of rambling around the parks of Capital Hill, and by Michael Jennison, with 76 species on his DC yard list.

I'll let you explore the 23 Maryland County list of listers on your own. Watch especially for the 8 or so names that are conspicuous in the way they keep repeating from one county to the next. Some might say they are the oil companys' best friends! And finally I turn the floor over (at last, some of you might say) to the remarks I received from all of you this year. Some of them are quite long while others are very short, but all of them are worth reading!

Stan Arnold: 2009 was a year of phenomenal good birding fortune, and the great experiences were so numerous that they warrant a countdown; here are my top ten: (10) A Goshawk flying over the yard for the second time, and first spring visit; (9) Finding Common Raven in eleven different counties this year; (8) Getting 22 new county birds in my home county of Anne Arundel, many from my now favorite birding venue—Swan Creek (thanks to Matt Grey for putting this place on the map); (7) Finishing the year with our second best yard year (118 species) and adding nine new ones to the list including White-winged Crossbill, Lincoln's Sparrow, White-crowned Sparrow and Cerulean Warbler; (6) Finally getting to see Roseate Tern in Maryland, from Assateague with Nat Donkin and Mike Walsh (and getting a bonus Pomarine Jaeger the same July day); (5) Our yard's first Mississippi Kite, on the last day of May (a state bird for Elaine); (4) Successfully finishing a big year, despite swearing I'd never do it again following my 2001 attempt; (3) Getting one of the best yard birds ever when three Sandhill Cranes flew over in March; (2) Enjoying the best find of the year: Jim Green's Scissor-tailed Flycatcher in Kent Co. which was a state or life bird for the dozen or two birders who got to see it; (1) The most unexpected birding experience of my life: finding an albatross off the beach of Assateague near the Virginia state line in early June. I had heard it said many times that an albatross is a once-in-a-decade experience, and it had been barely more than ten years since my last East Coast albatross.

Harry Armistead: I am somewhat at a disadvantage in not actually living at any of these places. In addition, every year I spend 3+ weeks on the Eastern Shore of Virginia during the best part of the passerine fall migration season. Some of my totals would be considerably improved if I could catch a few days, especially in the fall, when the warblers, vireos, thrushes, flycatchers, et al. are at their best. My absence for 3 weeks each when I was in the Arabian Peninsula (Jan. 2009) and Antarctica & environs (Nov. 2009) probably had little effect on my totals. I've never been much of a chaser but the Cambridge ducks and the Oxford Snowy Owl provided exceptions one could not resist. And Poplar Island is almost within sight of our yard.

Tyler Bell: My favorite experience of 2009 was finding a drake Barrow's Goldeneye at Jefferson Patterson Park while conducting the Jug Bay sponsored Patuxent River Waterfowl Survey. This constitutes the first record for Calvert County and was in the same location where I found the drake Tufted Duck back in 1997. Talk about a sweet spot!

Joy and Mike Bowen: The birders of Maryland are truly an extraordinary bunch — skilled but also exceptionally willing to share sightings and encourage others to go after the same great birds. We had some wonderful new Maryland birds this year, but we also missed a number of others — entirely due to our own inefficiency or inability to get to the site(s) in good time. Certainly the wealth of information flowing into MD Osprey was not to blame! We missed the female Barrow's Goldeneye in Cambridge because we were birding at the time in (shame! hiss! boo!) Delaware. Probably the most fully satisfying experience of the year was spending a wonderful day birding Carroll County with Bob Ringler during the MOS Conference.

Gwen Brewer: It was thrilling to add two duck species to my state list this year. Keep 'em coming!

Jim Brighton: When I think of 2009 what comes to mind is BIG...A JANUARY BIG DAY turned into a BIG JANUARY which then turned into a BIG YEAR. 337 birds later, all I can hope for is that 2010 is just as fun.

Keith Eric Costley: In 2009 I added twenty species to my Baltimore County list and fourteen species to my Baltimore City list. My best Baltimore County sightings included: 2 Vesper Sparrows at Southwest Area Park; 3

Saltmarsh Sharp-tailed Sparrows at Fort Howard Park VA Hospital; 3 Bank Swallows flying over Soldiers Delight; and 12 Red Crossbill at Soldiers Delight NEA and 8 White-winged Crossbill at Druid Ridge Cemetery. In Baltimore City the highlights included the Sedge Wren at Patterson Park; and at Fort McHenry NM 4 Brant, 6 Red-necked Phalarope, 7 Bank Swallow and a Saltmarsh Sharp-tailed Sparrow.

Jeff Culler: My special thanks to Jo Solem, Bonnie Ott, Joe Byrnes, and Joe Hanfman for their kind assistance and sharing over the years. Most exciting bird of 2009 was a Warbling Vireo, observed in Howard County, on December 15th!

Kathy Fleming: The great thing about this year was that 7 of my 13 state birds were also life birds. Also, this year I was able to photograph almost all of the new state birds I added.

Diane Ford: My birding year in 2009 was an interesting one. By following the adventures of fellow Md Ospreyers, I became more determined to add to my state list, as well as to my life list. Although I couldn't wander as far as I would've liked, I still picked up some long-a-waited species: Loggerhead Shrike (thanks Jim G.), Eared Grebe (thanks Mikey L), Red-throated Loon (thanks, Stan A.) Hudsonian Godwits, Cackling Goose & Grasshopper Sparrow. It is always fun to meet folks in the field who are also chasers, and put a face with a name. Now, that I'm armed with a good spotting scope, and new binoculars looking forward to seeing more. Hopefully in 2010 a Sandhill Crane will be within reach, and maybe a pelagic trip—who knows?"

Ross Geredien: I'm looking forward to hitting 300 in 2010!

Kevin Graff: It has been a great year for rarities, both in Maryland & out-of-state. With more rarities this year, I ended up breaking my MD record for the year.

Jim Green: Looking back on 2009 there are several memories that come to mind. Back in January I was birding on the eastern shore with Bill H., Jim B., John H. and several others. One of them received a phone call from Matt H. (back from FL for the weekend) and he had just discovered a Glaucous Gull at the Salisbury County landfill. We all hightailed it to that spot and shortly after arriving were able to see it. For me it was both a State bird as well as my 4000th total tick for MD. When I happily shared this thought with the others I heard things like "Only 4000 ticks?" and "It's about time", etc. Later in the day, despite their sarcasm, I endured some more when after we went to the Worcester County Landfill and I shared with them that the Glaucous Gull that we saw there was my 4001 tick. I quietly celebrated anyway. This past spring Dave Powell and I were birding on some wooded roads in Charles and Prince Georges Counties. After spotting a Black & White Warbler I got Dave on the bird and told him it was a closeout for me in P.G. County. Dave let me celebrate for a minute and then asked me if I saw that small sign 200 feet up the road. It read "End of Maintenance" - Charles County". Dave politely informed me that the B&W Warbler was in Charles County and so much for your closeout. After ten minutes (which seemed like an hour) of spishing and wishing the warbler up the road it finally cooperated and crossed into Prince Georges County. I am sure that Dave is still laughing at my antics. I will never forget meeting Bill Hubick at the Ocean City Inlet on the Friday before the Rarities Roundup at first daylight and looking out at 20 foot waves as a result of the Nor'easter that had hit the East Coast. In the parking lot amidst all the sand and standing water were 20 Sanderlings scurrying about. My favorite memory had to be when Kyle Carstensen (a MD transplant visiting from COLO) and I found the Scissor-tailed Flycatcher in Kent County at Eastern Neck NWR. Up until then it had been a very long, dreary, non-productive day of birding in the wind and rain with hardly anything to show for it. Kyle was very impressed at the marvels of the MDOsprey and use of cell phones which enabled over 25 MD birders to arrive and see the STFL within a three hour period. I did miss seeing George Jett running all over the state with all of that photographic equipment. I also enjoyed increasing my vocabulary (thanks to Bill Hubick and company) by adding new meanings to words like nemesis, lion, jackal, etc. Congratulations to all those who rewrote the MD records for a BIG YEAR, and those listers who have exceeded 5000 county ticks and 200+ ticks in all 23 counties.

Ron Gutberlet: What a year! It was great to be along for the ride. I hear they like birding in other states too, but I can't imagine anyone is having as much fun as we are!

Matt Hafner: This was the first year that I lived solely outside of Maryland, but I still managed to spend about 21 days in the state. Hence the 2009 Year List of 260. There were many birding highlights for the year including: Joining up with Hans's Yellow Rail Bachelor Party at Irish Grove after my Brother's wedding in April, making a run at a May Big Day with 6 people in a minivan, and surprising a bunch of friends by showing up unannounced at the Big Sit on Assateague. We moved to St. Augustine in July and found the birding much better than in Ocala. Birding on the coast fits my style a little better. Hopefully 2010 finds Kim and me spending more time back in MD because we still call it home and miss all of our great friends there.

Joe Hanfman: 2009 was truly a phenomenal birding year. As a group, we saw 242 species in Howard County which broke the old record of 236 set in 1994. I personally saw 225 species in Howard County for the year which was unexpected. It is a tribute to the many other birders who shared information in a timely manner via MDOsprey, emails, text messages, phone calls, Howard County Rare Bird Alerts, and eBird.

Elaine Hendricks: In my third year as a certified (crazy) county lister, I added 19 species to my Maryland life list to reach 311, passed 3400 total ticks, notched 46 county closeouts, and recorded species #132 (a Surf Scoter!) for my Greenbelt Lake list. My most memorable birds of the year would certainly include the Tufted Duck in Cambridge, the Harris's Sparrow in Columbia, and the Red-necked Phalaropes in Queen Anne's County (all were great life birds for me). My top birding experience of the year has to be the Scissor-tailed Flycatcher (the one with both of its tail streamers) found at Eastern Neck in May by Jim Green. The subsequent rapid response of hard-core listers was also great fun; I never thought I would be present when Jim Stasz got a state bird!

John Hubbell: Aside from meeting several personal listing goals — 5000 total ticks and 200 birds in every county — the greatest experience of the year had to be Yellow Rail weekend in Somerset County. And staying ahead of Ron Gutberlet in Wicomico County.

Bill Hubick: What an exceptional year. 2009 had so many rarities that my year list looks like a Big Year attempt just from hanging out with the Big Year guys (321). Without a doubt the coolest moment was everything coming together perfectly to find Yellow Rails during Hans Holbrook's birding bachelor party. Simply too cool. Another incredible moment was finally seeing my state Roseate Tern after missing one during a 10-hour sea watch while I was getting everyone pizza! When the bird gods finally had mercy, I literally jumped up and down. Other highlights? White-winged Crossbills in 13 counties, an excellent attempt at the MD Big Day record, hitting 350 species photographed in MD, getting all Eastern Shore counties over 200, fantastic camaraderie, and staying ahead of Ron Gutberlet in Wicomico Co.

George Jett: I've been on sabbatical trying to get my retirement in order. Check my website to see what has happened during 2009 except a few new species photo chases: www.georgejett.net. Trinidad was a very successful trip. Good birding and thanks to Norm for continuing to do this effort.

Glen Lovelace: Adding a beautiful adult male Golden-winged Warbler to my home / Caroline lists was definitely a highlight.

Nancy Magnusson: I had set a few modest MD birding goals going in to 2009. With the help of a gang of Howard year listers (Joe Hanfman in particular went into maniac mode) and the folks who report to MDOSprey, I was easily able to reach those goals. Some of the highlights of 2009 were going to Elliott Island for the first time, seeing a painted bunting in Howard County, hitting 216 for the year in Howard County (a personal best), and adding two species (White-winged Crossbill and Yellow-bellied Flycatcher) to the Schooley Mill Park list. Maybe we will get the Schooley list to 200 in my lifetime! Congrats to all those who went after one record or another - it was a lot of fun reading about and watching your exploits. The camaraderie of all the folks I bird with and run into during the course of the year is, of course, always special.

Andy Martin: I tried a Montgomery Co "big year" and was medium happy with 219 but would really like to have broken the 220 mark. I think that Paul O'Brien's record of 229 from early 1990s is doable by someone with right amount of skill, lots and lots of time and a little bit of luck. Not sure if I am better at finding more birds or just the same birds faster. Finding the Swallow-tailed Kite at Hughes Hollow with Lydia Schindler was the best bird I ever found on my own. I'm glad Dave Czaplak birds in Montgomery and that Paul O'Brien and his Upper Watts Branch hotspot is only 10 minutes from my house!

Joel Martin: It would be hard to top what happened in January 2009, with Lark Bunting, Tufted Duck and Barrow's Goldeneye appearing within days of each other. But one of the highlights of my year was a single county tick - Red-headed Woodpecker in Baltimore County, my home base, thanks to Keith Costley. My county listing efforts are still modest but are taking me to new and interesting parts of the state. I hope to continue adding 300 or so new county ticks each year, at least for a while - there's still a lot of low-hanging fruit out there

Carol McCollough: Although work interfered severely with birding, I still managed to add 11 species to my Maryland list in 2009. My best bird of the year had to be the Snowy Owl at Cooperative Oxford Lab (and meeting the birders who came to see it), followed by the Cambridge trifecta (well...bifecta, because I already had Eurasian Wigeon), thanks to Bill Hubick and George Jett. Although Lee missed the owl, he did get all 3 ducks. The Scissor-tailed Flycatcher was also a great life bird, requiring a bit more patience, rendered more tolerable by the company of Dan Small. My most amusing experience was the great Brown Booby watch at Assateague with Winger West and others, where I enjoyed the non-birder reactions to the answer to "What are you looking at/for?" No booby, but added Black Tern to my Maryland list. Another wonderful trip was kayaking down the Pocomoke River with my non-birding brother and sister, and having an Acadian Flycatcher allow us to drift right under it, not 2 feet away. Not to mention the ubiquitous Prothonotary Warblers. Multiple journeys to Druid Hill finally yielded White-winged Crossbills, plus Nico Sarbanes. The Delmarva Birding Weekend had productive trips, especially the evening walk at Truitt's Landing (King Rail calling) and the boat trip to Sinepuxent Bay (Piping Plover, yes!). The great majority of my birding efforts are made more memorable by the company of my husband Lee, who is the original birder in the relationship. He's the one who keeps the feeders filled and the screech owl box clean, and is always game for a trip to Blackwater - and whose driving skills in reverse ensured that we got lengthy perfect views of the Hudsonian Godwits and the avocet there this fall. He also joined me on the Neck District portion of the Dorchester County May Count (Grasshopper Sparrows everywhere!), where his eagle eyes picked out the 3 Bonaparte's Gulls amongst the thousands of laughers in the wet fields that day. Banding pelicans with Dave Brinker and Harry Armistead, watching plunge diving gannets in the mid-Bay from the deck of the Miss Kay, watching the screech owls nest.... the list just goes on. Not all birding leads to lifers or State birds, but it all produces happy memories. Roll on 2010!

Peter Osenton: 2009 was a great year as I added 6 MD state birds! The most memorable ones were the Tufted Duck, Scissor-tailed Flycatcher, and the White-faced Ibis Hans Holbrook found while we were doing the Assateague Big Sit. My yard list acquired 1 new bird with a Worm-eating Warbler in September. I was able to add 5 Howard County birds, which were: White-winged Crossbill, Harris's Sparrow, Painted Bunting, Common Moorhen & Stilt Sandpiper. PG County added 3 new birds and Anne Arundel added 9 new birds. My work list (Patuxent Wildlife Research Center) added 1 species with a male Redhead on February 9th. The Pin Oak tree bird list I keep remained at 64 species. Besides getting new birds, it was nice to meet many more Maryland birders at the conference and on various trips throughout the state!

Michael Ostrowski: I saw a lot of cool birds in Maryland in 2009 including Neotropic Cormorant, Swallow-tailed Kite, and Scissor-tailed Flycatcher, but I think the highlight was watching 75+ Black Terns feeding at Violettes Lock on 8/21.

Robert Ostrowski: My favorite year of Maryland birding yet. I met a bunch of new friends, became obsessed with county listing, and saw some amazing birds. Some of my favorites from the year were: the Swallow-tailed Kite at Hughes Hollow, Chuck-Will's-Widow in PG County, self-found Orange-crowned Warbler on Assateague after dipping on Jim and Dave's, finding two Long-billed Dowitchers at Merkle Wildlife Sanctuary, and seeing two Gull-billed Terns fly by while I was sitting on the roof of my car at Vaughn North. Congrats to all the Big Year guys who made this year historical.

Tom Ostrowski: What tops my list of great experiences of 2009 is when I stumbled upon three Black-necked Stilts at Chesapeake Environmental Center. A cool bird to see anytime, but what pushes it to top of my list is that, unbeknown to me at the time of viewing, it was to be a county record for Queen Anne's County. Pretty awesome.

Joy Peters: After two and half years of working on my County lists, it was a thrill to have my first SEVEN close-out birds in 2009 - no record, but exciting nonetheless, with plenty of good birding and interesting new places discovered along the way!

Paul Pisano: Not much to report this year. I didn't work too hard on the DC year list, so it came in at a reasonable 190. My 2 new DC birds were not expected at all - White-winged Crossbill & Red-necked Phalarope. I'm glad I finally caught up with 2 MD nemeses - Lark Bunting & Tufted Duck.

Danny Poet: Year Highlights:

- 1 Finding the Whimbrels at Central Sod Farm in Queen Annes County in Aug- Sept.
- 2 The Short Eared Owl show at Starr in Queen Anne's in the winter of 2009.
- 3 Seeing the Red Necked Phalarope in the rain puddle at CentrAl Sod farm in August.
- 4 Seeing a Chuck-Will's-Widow in Early June after all these years of just hearing them.
- 5 The Snowy Owl in Oxford last February.

Derek Richardson: We added 5 birds to our yard list in 2009: Hermit Thrush (3/1), Mallard (3/22), Yellow-throated Vireo (8/16), Chestnut-sided Warbler (9/19), and Common Raven (10/28). A fun trip to Puerto Rico in October netted 64 species (11 life birds of which 2 are endemics) — too bad I couldn't spend the whole time birding!

Les Roslund: A Ross's Goose dropped down onto Leeds Creek in front of our house on Christmas Eve to provide a new yard bird. It was very easy to see amongst the gaggle of 2,000 Canada Geese that were also on the creek. The Ross's stayed through Christmas Day, but after that was gone and was not relocated close to this area. However, one was seen at Blackwater NWR within the next few days.

Nico Sarbanes: I set three goals for myself at the start of 2009: 1) to get my MD life list over 300 species, 2) to get my MD year list over 250 species, and 3) to get my Photographed in MD list over 250 species. With a lot of birding (and occasional disregard for schoolwork), I succeeded in achieving all three (!), making 2009 by far my best year of MD birding. Many thanks to the Maryland birding community, whose kindness and generosity can be no more evident than in the dozens of individuals who drove me around in search of birds this year (and put up with me on long trips to the coast and the mountains :)). Highlights from this year included finding a flock of over 60 White-winged Crossbills up the street from my house, seeing the rare waterfowl trio at Cambridge, getting photos of my first MD Woodcock at point-blank range, hours of seawatching on Assateague over the summer, and of course, getting my 300th species in Maryland, a Mourning Warbler originally found by Frode Jacobsen at Cromwell Valley Park (Thanks Frode!). Getting the MOWA on the day before my 16th birthday, I joined Marshall Iliff and the O'Brien brothers in being the only MD birders to see 300 species in the state before reaching age 16 (according to Matt Hafner), fantastic birders whose company I am honored to be in. Now...who was quickest to 5000 county ticks? ;) Here's to more rarities in 2010!

Kurt Schwarz: While my year totals have been less than stellar, it's been a great year, with 9 additions to my state list, 4 to the Howard County list, and one to the yard list. Thanks to Norm for putting on this effort!

Fred Shaffer: My highlights from 2009 included seeing the Tufted Duck and Barrow's Goldeneye in Cambridge, seeing the Scissor-Tailed Flycatcher at Eastern Neck NWR, seeing the Swallow-tailed Kite at Hughes Hollow, a Little Gull at Ocean City inlet, and finding the Franklin's Gull at Schoolhouse Pond.

Jeff Shenot: Wow! 2009 was a great year. I finally managed to go through my old records, tally up a state list, and while I was at it, a life list! I have to mention the extra-limital Ivory Gull I saw in January in MA, because it blasted my year off to a bang and more importantly, GREATLY INSPIRED me to see more birds in general. As a result, I got to know Maryland better in 2009. Highlights from 2009 included greatly expanding my appreciation and love for our home state of MD, as I boldly went birding well beyond Jug Bay! For example, I saw MD's Atlantic Ocean for the first time in nearly 20 years!! I birded many of MD's best birding places for my first time ever, and got to meet many great folks while doing so. Although I spent less time around home, this year held fabulous surprises for my yard list, including Black-bellied Whistling Duck, Golden Eagle, Black-billed Cuckoo, Cliff Swallow, and Red Crossbill! My Maryland 2009 highlights included 40 (!) species of waterfowl (I probably won't ever duplicate this in MD), and many great "lifers" such as Tufted Duck, King Eider, Barrow's Goldeneye, Purple Sandpiper, Upland Sandpiper, Lapland Longspur and Clay-colored Sparrow. Perhaps my favorite outing was the late night effort in hopes of a Yellow Rail at Irish Grove Sanctuary - although I missed finding one, the sheer excitement and beauty of the expansive salt marsh there left an indelible impression (and a hunger to try again in 2010!). Next year I hope to do my first MD pelagic trip, and look forward to meeting more of MD's great birding community.

Dan Small: Highlights include meeting many great MD birders this year and birding some great new locations around the Eastern shore. Having only gotten into the listing thing half way through 2009, I'm looking forward to a full year in 2010.

Jo Solem: 2009 was an exceptional birding year in this small Piedmont county. Headline species included an invasion of White-winged Crossbills in winter; spring brought a cooperative Harris's Sparrow and Painted Bunting, plus a Henslow's Sparrow; Virginia Rails nested in summer. Although autumn shorebird habitat was limited, a Stilt Sandpiper created a stir as did a Clay-colored Sparrow—and a Lark Sparrow made a cameo appearance. These and other gems added up to a record-breaking year for half a dozen Howard County birders.

Jim Stasz: Oh, this is out-of-date already...I have added 5 County Birds so far this year :-)

Warren Strobel: Another wonderful year of getting to know Maryland's birds, and Maryland's birders, better. The year started off with a bang, with the Barrow's Goldeneye in Calvert County and the Tufted Duck at Cambridge waterfront, and kept on moving from there. Will never forget the Memorial Day trip to western Maryland with Dan Haas and Chris Murray. We left pre-dawn, hooked up with David Yeany at Finzel Swamp and birded like demons. Picked up an amazing 7 state birds in a single day, including several lifers such as Henslow's Sparrow and Golden-Winged Warbler. And made it home in time for a holiday BBQ. Then there was the Scissor-Tailed Flycatcher in QA County enjoyed by Lisa, myself and Peter Kaestner. Paul Baicich, as ever, was our guide and mentor. And so on... Good birding to all in 2010. I will be in the 300 Club by year's end!

Dave Webb: After a lengthy drought of new additions to either my Harford or APG lists, I finally added a new bird to each of these in 2009, a Snowy Owl and Lapland Longspur, respectively. I hope I don't have to wait as long for the next additions.

Leo Weigant: Great experiences? Well there was that lark bunting and tufted duck within days of each other. And a fine pelagic with Paul & Anita Guris last February . . . but probably the "most memorable" experience was following Paul's medical crisis, surgery, and not-always-smooth recovery afterward. Best "Happy Ending" of the year.

Well, that wraps it up for another year! Thanks all of you for your submissions and I wish Good Birding to each and every one of you in 2010!
